Corral member Paul Spitzzeri is a historian, archivist, and museum director. He grew up locally, attending Esperanza High School and California State University - Fullerton. He worked as an intern with the Workman Temple Museum and has worked there since 1988, now serving as Director. He has also been a researcher for the Japanese American National Museum, has consulted 13 years for the California State Parks Foundation and the Lopez Adobe in San Fernando, and presents to travelers on Road Scholars' tours. He was an Advisory Board member of the Boyle Heights Historical Society also.

Paul is a gracious host - the LA Corral held their Fandango at the Museum several years ago and we are returning in 2024 for our annual Rendezvous. What a good partner! In addition to many articles, Paul is the author of The Workman and Temple Families of Southern California (2007). Let's give Paul a rousing Hip-Hip-Hooray! for all he does.

Future Corral Events

Our next Roundup will be on November 13 with Abe Hoffman as our speaker. You know, he will be great as always! Next, on December 11, Brian Dillon will give a talk on his career in archaeology. In January 2025, we will be joined by Sarah Keyes, a former Corral Fellow from the Autry Museum, speaking on her new book American Burial Ground – A New History of the Overland Trail.

Hear a Good Talk Lately? Suggestions for future programs are always welcome.

If you have any questions or ideas for talks, please call Joe Cavallo, incoming Deputy Sheriff, at 626-372-5126 or via email to joscavallo@gmail.com.
